About Blue Hill Mountain

Conservation on the mountain began, in 1977, when Ruth Hayes left her land to the town. Generous gifts from the Frederick, Woodward, Becton, and Clements families, as well as other donors, have helped Blue Hill Heritage Trust conserve nearly 400 acres on the mountain.

BHHT maintains 5.5 miles of trails with views of the Village, Harbor, and Acadia National Park. Look also for reindeer lichen, mushrooms, exposed granite bedrock, blueberries, and wildlife.
