About Hundred Acre Wood

Hundred Acre Woods was acquired, in 2013, thanks to a generous gift from the Winthrop family and member support. Its 113 acres of woods has 1.7 miles of trails.

Named after A. A. Milne's Hundred Acre Wood, this was the first hiking trail the Trust designed and built in Brooklin, constructed in summer 2013 by Ken Burgess, the Trust's volunteer crew, and the Brooklin Youth Corps.

The accessible loop trail was built in the summer of 2022, with the generous support the Anahata Foundation, the Maine Community Foundation, and the Brookman Charitable Fund.
