About Kingdom Woods

Thanks to the generous support of our donors, Kingdom Woods Conservation Area (878 acres) parcels were acquired between 1998-2006.

Look for lady slippers, glacial erratics, Camp Stream Granite (approx. 419 million years old) and Ellsworth Schist geologic units.

KWCA is important for deer, moose, bear, bobcat, muskrat, beaver, snowshoe hare, waterfowl, and song birds. There are also several thriving vernal pools.
